

About Adelaide, South Australia

The University of South Australia is located in the heart of Adelaide – the capital city of South Australia. Adelaide is a beautiful city, surrounded by the beach on one side and the hills on the other and is within easy reach of the hills and valleys of Australia's premier wine districts.

South Australia was featured in the "Best in Travel 2017 – Regions" by global travel company Lonely Planet, as a reflection of our unspoilt coastlines, wine regions, Kangaroo Island and the Outback experience. Adelaide was also ranked fifth in the Economist Intelligence Unit's liveability index for 2016, continuing to show off its charm as a city with a dynamic culture and beautiful environment.

Adelaide is home to 1.3 million people

With over 200 cellar doors within a short drive

Choose your course

APPLIED ISLAMIC FINANCE

This course is designed to familiarise participants with the concepts and practices associated with Islamic finance. The first part of the course is theoretical in nature while the second part is applied finance. More specifically, students will learn how to trade Asian financial products in a simulated trading environment using the IRESS Trading Room for the applied component. Students will learn how to build equity portfolios, trade FOREX, money market instruments and derivatives. In an exciting partnership with IRESS, a global leader in innovative technologies, students will have access to the IRESS Trading, South Australia's first simulated financial trading room.

AUSTRALIAN BUSINESS LEGAL ENVIRONMENT

This course explores the key features of the Australian legal system considering the concepts and principles that have moulded its legal institutions and methods. Substantive areas of the law discussed will include product liability and consumer protection, environmental regulation, doing business with government, business norms, competition law and intellectual property.

FOOD, WINE, TOURISM AND TECHNOLOGY

South Australia is internationally famous for the quality of its produce. Its natural features and high quality environment yield both fresh and value added products from agriculture and aquaculture that are in high demand globally. This course studies this capacity and the trade opportunities it provides. Particular focus is upon the wine industry, tourism opportunities that arise and associated applications of technology.

INTERNATIONAL ACCOUNTING

This course will cover the international accounting and finance environment including the key international organisations involved in the accounting profession. This will be followed by looking at some of the contentious issues in international accounting and examining the diversity of views about what accounting is, or should be, as well as the purpose of financial reporting and annual reports. Current developments in international accounting as well as social and environmental aspects of accounting will also be covered. No detailed knowledge of accounting is needed to take this module.

TOURISM AND INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

This course provides the opportunity for students to explore the impacts of tourism on Indigenous peoples and the economic, social, cultural, environmental and political motivations that encourage Indigenous peoples to engage in tourism. It provides alternative insights into tourism as a social and cultural phenomenon by examining tourism from a different worldview. Students will also have the opportunity to undertake additional field trips and explore Aboriginal arts, culture, events and native foods.

Credit information

The UniSA Business School awards 4.5 credits for the successful completion of each course which is equivalent to 7.5 ECTS or 3 US Credits.

Fees

Tuition fee: $1,500 AUD - this is waived for select UniSA exchange partners, please contact the project office for further details.
